A Message from Superintendent Dickerson

We appreciate the show of support and kind comments received on the Parent Remote Learning Survey. Thrust into teaching using different methods essentially overnight without any preparation or training, our goal was to provide each and every student with the best possible learning experience given the circumstances.

Overall 85.8% of 246 survey respondents indicated that they were “very satisfied” to “expectations met” with the way the district managed the emergency remote learning at home this spring .

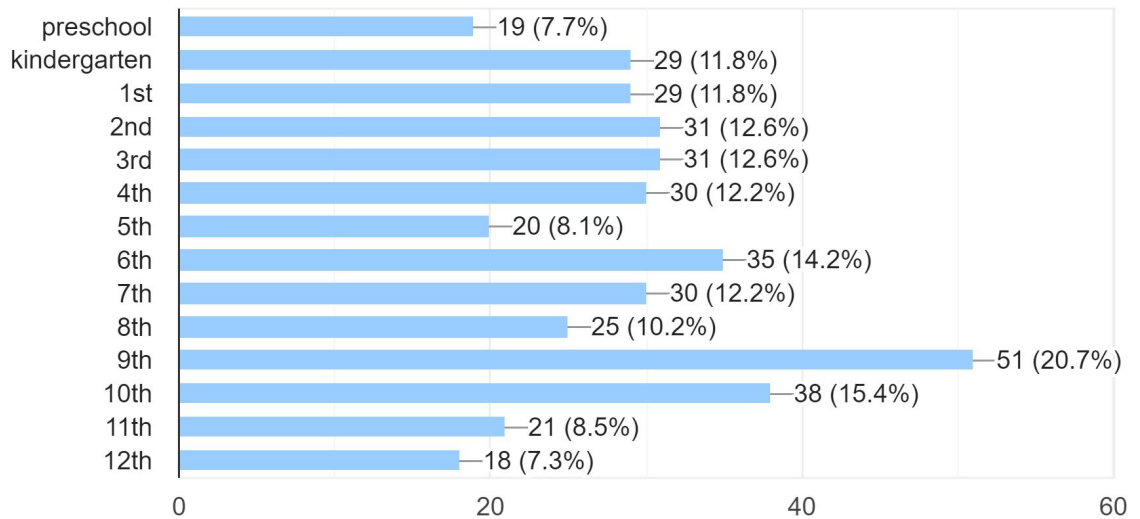

We hear you that you will expect more from us in the future if we should need to return to some form of online learning. It is, of course, our hopes that this will not be necessary. However, we are evaluating our performance based on your provided insights on how we can improve instruction, communication and technology so that we are prepared, just in case.

Primarily, the consensus between respondents is that you desire more connectivity through teacher-created videos and live virtual feeds, parent notification of assignments and more consistency in regard to expectations, communication, and learning platforms.

Again, we thank each of you who took the time to complete the survey. We value your opinions.

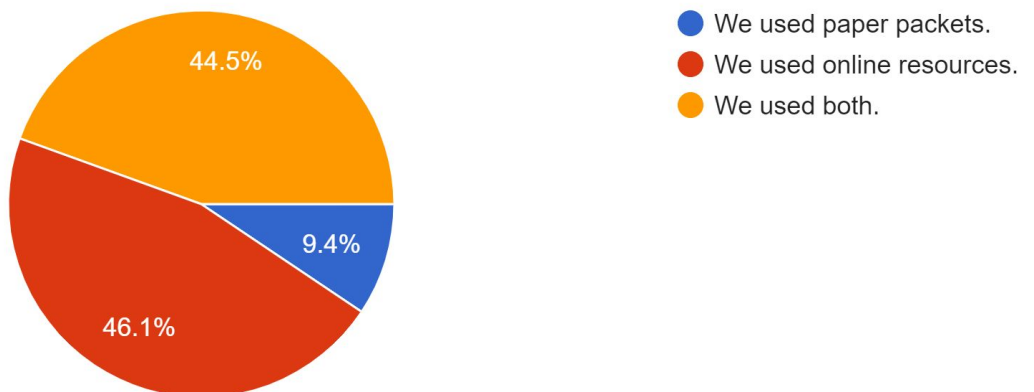

Please mark the grade for each child in your family attending school in the Hillsdale district:
